GREENVILLE.

The 82d annual meeting of the Greenville Congregational church was held Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Rev. C. H. Bickert opened the meeting with prayer. Reports of the various organizations of the church were read and accepted.

After the meeting refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

The committee on church work, Mrs. Charles J. Twist, chairman; Mrs. W. A. Pritchard, Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. Fred Sears, Mrs. Sarah Buchanan, Mrs. R. A. Rogers, Mrs. A. M. Doucill, Mrs. James W. Scumple and Miss Letitia Kramer.

Dwight Thompson of Fourth street is confined to his home with illness.

Mrs. John Donovan of Central avenue is confined to her home with an attack of quinsy sore throat.

TAFTVILLE.

The thaw of the past two days has not taken off enough to hinder the holding of sleighing parties, and almost every night there is one or two leaving the village. The public schools have enjoyed several of the parties, as have the numerous organizations in the village. The trolley service to and from the village was on a much more regular basis Thursday than during the earlier part of the week. The water that flooded the tracks in this vicinity has drained off and the tracks are practically free from obstruction of this sort.

As can be expected with the influenza epidemic increasing steadily throughout the city and country, there are a few more cases in town than there were at the beginning of the week. These cases are about the general severity of the epidemic, as in all the cases so far and are not as serious as those encountered in the fall of 1918. People are still warned to take every precaution to prevent the spread of the disease. The total number of cases now in town is not over 10 or 15, and these are of the mild form.

David O'Brien has returned to his home here after spending several days with his relatives in Poughkeepsick.

William Wohlleben was a visitor in Meoson one day during the first part of the week.

ATTORNEY BUES FOR HIS EEE OF $1250

Late Thursday afternoon before Judge John W. Banks in the superior court in this city the trial of the suit of Attorney E. H. Hewitt of Norwich against Pendleton Bros. Inc. of Stratford for a $1,250 attorney's fee concluded. Judge Banks took the papers and reserved decision.

The attorney sued on a claim for a fee of $1,250 on which two thirds was paid for his services in obtaining a mandatory injunction in a matter relating to the sale of a schooner. Attorney E. H. Hewitt conducted his case and Attorney Lubchansky appeared for the defendants. After Mr. Hewitt had testified, Attorney W. H. Shields, Arthur M. Brown, C. L. Stewart and Clayton B. Smith were called as witnesses on the value of services in such a case as the suit involved.

Prominent democratic women in Norwich received calls Thursday from Mrs. Frank H. Smith, of Washington, of the democratic national committee of the Woman's Bureau, who is in Connecticut on a survey trip.

LEADS BURGLAR CRUNCHING IN SNOW

A burglar who had stolen $4.65 from a desk in the candy store of John A. Johnson at 283 Main street was scared away from there Thursday morning about 1:30 o'clock by Dennis J. Morrissey of 29 Ferry street who heard the man crunching through the snow as he was making his get-a-way through a yard in the rear of the store and the rear of the Ferry street house.

The cash register which had money in it was not disturbed, nor was the safe, except to have the metal cap on the hinges unscrewed and thrown on the door.

The man got away without being seen and left no clue, but there are circumstances that indicate he is well acquainted with premises and that he is an amateur at the game and merely a petty thief.

As the burglar was committed also between 1 and 1:30 o'clock, which is the time when the policeman would have been on duty, it is thought the burglar had calculated on the time when he would run the least chance of interruption at his work.

Mr. Morrissey had retired late and had not yet gone to sleep when he heard the sound of footsteps crunching on the snow in the yard. Slipping on a bath robe and slippers he went downstairs to the back door into the yard and heard the intruder make a rush to get to the street. As Mr. Morrissey started to step out into the yard in pursuit, he slipped on some ice and got a sharp reminder that he was not clad for a chase in the dark. The burglar disappeared around 10 o'clock.

He drew back into the house again, through the back door, and hid in the closet and coming out on Ferry street, where in a moment or two he met Officer M. J. Carroll and told him of the burglary.

Officer Carroll at once searched the yard without finding anyone and had Mr. Morrissey telephone to the police headquarters from which men were sent to cover the front of the store and look over the inside.

It was found that the burglar had gotten in through a rear window, which is about 15 feet from the ground and which he reached by using for a ladder a pair of barrel staves leaning to the grocery and crockery store next door. The staves were found protruding up to the window sill of the rear window of the candy store. This window had no catch on it and was easily raised, affording entrance to the store.

Inside the store one burnt match was found on the floor. One five cent piece was also found on the floor. The desk from which the money was taken was in a recess at the side of the store, hidden from view from the street. There was little possibility of a man being seen while at work there.

NEW SUITS BROUGHT FOR SUPERIOR COURT TRIALS

Eight new cases for the superior court, of which five are divorces, were filed on Thursday here at the office of Judge George E. Parsons, clerk of the court. All are returnable on the first Tuesday of February. The following is the list:

Divorces of 1919 are claimed in a suit brought against Marion R. Davis, executor of the estate of the late Elizabeth G. Davis, of Norwich, by her husband, George Davis, of Norwich. The plaintiff is a nurse and claims a bill of $621 for services rendered Mrs. Davis from Nov. 1912, to Aug. 1, 1919, and also at various times from Oct. 1, 1915, to Oct. 4, 1917, for Joseph C. Gellino, husband of Elizabeth Gellino. She claims these services were rendered three days or more each month for 49 months and was paid $12 a day and $2 a week.

Elizabeth Gellino died on Aug. 8, 1919, and the administrator of her estate has disallowed the claim.

Frank D. Denison of New London, who married Ernestine Doble on Jan. 1, 1903, seeks divorce from her on the grounds of desertion since June 9, 1911. The wife is now living in New York.

Divorce on the grounds of a statutory offense committed between April 1, 1919, and May 1, 1919, at New London, with a person unknown, is sought by Arthur P. Rose of New London from Pauline Rose of the same place.

Grace Street, Prescott of Waterford seeks that her name be changed to Grace Street and seeks divorce from Frank J. Prescott of Waterford, to whom she was married on Nov. 28, 1917. She claims that the husband has been cruel and inhuman since Jan. 1, 1918.

Desertion since June 1, 1911, and habitual intemperance for more than eight years are alleged by Mrs. M. Maynard of New London against Jesse M. Maynard of New London, whom she married on Sept. 16, 1901. Her maiden name was Taff. She seeks the custody of two minor children.

Foreclosure of two mortgages, one for $1,500 and the other for $1,000, is sought by the First National Bank of New London against the Unacville Wharfage and Storage Co. Salvatorius Caracausa of New London was Peter Shandour of Groton for $1,500 damages on the claim that Shandour wrongfully removed a wooden partition and four counters from a building on Pearl street, Naank.

The value is placed at $500. Caracausa also claims that Shandour removed from the premises a certain garage building worth $600.

JUDGE MINER VOTED 54 YEARS IN BOZRAH

The late John Haley Miner, who died at Bozrah in 1919, had the unusual distinction of attending every election held in the town of Bozrah from the day he was admitted as an elector on the 10th day of April, A. D. 1866, up to the day he cast his last ballot on the first Monday of October, 1917, covering a period of more than 54 years.

Miner was born in Bozrah, a town of the old school, and never wavered in his devotion to the interests and welfare of the community which he so steadfastly upheld.

In 1895 he was elected representative to the general assembly, although he was not a member of either party.

He was elected first lieutenant in October, 1899, and held the office continuously with the exception of two years, 1912, when the infirmities of age compelled him to decline further honors at the hands of his fellow men.

He served with distinguished ability as judge of probate from 1899 until retired by the age limit in 1911. He was long recognized as an authority on all legal matters, a man of great kindness of heart, whose departure will be regretted by all.

Mr. Miner was the son of John Miner and Phoebe (Brown) Miner and was born in Bozrah April 2, 1822, and always lived in the town. In 1866 he was married to Charlotte M. Rogers of Bozrah, who survives him. There were three children, of whom only one is living, Mrs. William R. Browning, of Bozrah. He was preceded in death by his wife in 1914, and a son, John Henry, died in 1910. Surviving are his widow and one son, Harry Avery Miner, of Bozrah.

Mrs. Charles S. Biles, and a great-granddaughter, Margaret A. Biles, all of Bozrah.

EXAMS AND FLU HAVE COLLEGE STUDENTS SHIVERING

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Connecticut College from the student point of view, is almost on the verge of nervous prostration, with an incomplete schedule of examinations and fear and horror of an influenza quarantine.

Examinations have been held at the college during the past ten days and will continue until Saturday night. In comparison with other years, the general opinion of the students has been much harder and much longer than formerly, requiring original thought rather than scholastic and book knowledge.

Shakespearean gatherings and psychology circles have been the order of the week, and practically every night found twenty or thirty students gathered together for group discussions and reviewing the material in these courses. These gatherings usually start at 8 o'clock and continue until 11, then an intermission is called, and good coffee and sandwiches served; the subjects under discussion are resumed or if too much knowledge has been absorbed, the students retire to snatch a few hours' sleep before the scheduled exam. If these circles are not held in the evening, the students are from 10 o'clock in the morning until breakfast time.

These gatherings are as a rule freemason affairs, and the upper classes have learned the wisdom of "early to bed" before an examination.

Examinations are strain enough even for the average student, but the college student but when the surrounding towns develop an influenza scare and roommates and classmates begin to sneeze and cough, and the administration begins to get suspicious of an outbreak, and rumors float about campus of a possible quarantine, the aforementioned college students nearly have a breakdown as a result.

Thursday evening a rumor was prevalent that the college authorities had decided to quarantine the college due to the fact that a student in London. Rumor was added to rumor until stories flew about campus, but no one really knew anything about the matter. The rumor was so prevalent that the students who shall want word to the students who were having dinner at the time, that they would make an announcement the following morning. In regard to the means decided upon by the authorities to prevent an outbreak of flu on campus.

Students who had finished their examinations and had been planning to go away for the week-end immediately packed up their bags and took the train for the respective destinations, fearing the flu. That the morning might bring forth a chapel was crowded the following morning with students, waiting for the verdict.

After the usual chapel exercises, which seemed unusually long, President Marshall announced that the college authorities had decided that there was no necessity for a quarantine at the college, and work would continue as usual. However, he forbade students to go to New York, because of the intensity of the outbreak in that city, and he also requested that the students remain on campus as much as possible, he quarantine for the campus is a matter of honor and each student is expected to avoid crowds and other occasions of the outbreak of the flu. Each student who is feeling run down, tired, or feels a cold coming on, is requested to report at once to the college physician for treatment.

Up to the present time there have been no cases of flu at the college.

MOTHERS IN MEETING AT BROADWAY SCHOOL

A meeting for the mothers of the first grade and kindergarten children of Broadway school was held at 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon at the school upon invitation of the teachers, Miss L. L. Wilson, first grade, Miss Susie C. Whitteley, kindergarten, and Miss Ruth L. Pettit, assistant. Visits to the homes of their homes had prepared them for the meeting, and although the day was unpromising, the weather standing point, the response was good.

A musical program by Miss Whitteley and Miss Pettit was followed by a talk to the mothers in which suggestions were given for handwork. The children could do at home. The mothers were also given opportunity to do some of the work themselves.

A social hour with tea served closed the pleasant and profitable afternoon and the mothers expressed their wish for similar meetings might be held regularly once a month.
